

Foraying into steadily rising sectors

Hospitality & Tourism Sector

The latest buzzword in the sector is 'Home stay' as more and more travelers are seeking pocket-friendly stay that comes with more personal touch and local flavour typical of the place

Government policy is conducive to the growth of homestays. To empower Indian citizens, especially those in underserved and rural areas, the government is motivating them to join the alternate accommodation sector and pursue livelihood by sharing their homes

In an effort to boost the sector and create more jobs, the latest Union budget will be offering tax sops and incentives to the sector

The sector is poised for growth under the 'Make In India' initiative with 100% FDI under the automatic route that would fund the construction of hotels, resorts and recreational facilities

The food & beverages segment of the sector, that witnessed a major blow in 2017 due to demonitisation and the ban on liquor sales within 500 meters of highways, will pick up significantly resulting in job generation in the sector

Need of the hour

While the government is expected to add 46 million jobs in the Hospitality and Tourism sector by 2025, customer service needs a major boost in the sector to fuel growth and footfall of customers. Professionalism of staff will be a major crowd-puller and, in order to achieve this, India needs to create skilled professionals associated with the sector. In order to attain sustainability and cater to international guests, villagers opening their doors to guests in rural areas need to be trained in customer service and customer relationship.

LabourNet's Impact

3180+ Livelihoods Impacted

- LabourNet has rolled out short-term and long-term skill development programs for youth and adults to skill the hospitality & tourism sector according to latest industry demand since 2014.
- While LabourNet conducts 2-year B.Voc courses in colleges, short-term courses are conducted in its centres in various parts of India.